Lukas/Mobility v.1

Escrito Por:

David Ripoll & Ysabel Berger

Character: LUKAS/MOBILITY

INT. CINEMA. MOVIE THEATER. DAY

You "wake up" in a movie theater with only the chair you are sitting on and some kind of box next to you. The lights fade off and a projection starts. A person appears on screen.
LUKAS, 23 sits on a wheelchair and looks confident and relaxed. Behind him lies the main entrance of The University of Applied Sciences of Sankt Pölten.

                    LUKAS
          Hi! My name is Lukas, nice to meet you! Oh and if you see me sitting here, don't think it's because I'm lazy. Well, I might be just a little bit, but...

Lukas laughs nonchalantly, shrugging it off in a joking manner. He recomposes swiftly and keeps talking.

                    LUKAS
          I'm actually in a wheelchair.

He moves backwards a bit so the chair can be seen, gets back and resumes talking.

                    LUKAS
          Yep, I've been like this for the last 5 of my 23 years of life, car accident.

He raises his arms in a joking manner and speaks sarcastically.

                    LUKAS
          "Oh my God! Such a pity!" You must be thinking. Well, it's certainly a bummer, but it's not necessarily hell on earth.

He ponders his next thoughts for a second.

                    LUKAS
          You see,I have always been somewhat of a healthy guy, I jogged, did gym
          a bit and all that but I never truly got into sports. However, after the accident I obviously got
          in a very bad spot.

He gasps and hesitates for a moment.

                                        (CONTINÚA)

                         LUKAS
               Nonetheless, I was recommended to try basketball for rehab, and when I did, somehow some joy came back to me.

His eyes brighten and smiles confidently.

                         LUKAS
               I loved it! And I wanted everyone to feel like me. And then it hit me,I decided what I wanted to study.

Lukas lays back relaxed.

                         LUKAS
               And that's how I ended up here on FH St.Pölten, I'm going to study Physiotherapy and scoring some points at the basketball court
               while I'm at it.

He reclines looking right in front of him.

                         LUKAS
               So, are you up to join me on a day
               through uni and score some hoops?
               Then you better put on those glasses over there!

                                              FADE TO GAME